A HUNT FOR AN EXPLOSIVE

I had breakfasted with the colonel at his club, one of those dreary, large establishments which remind you of an overcrowded cemetery where the owners of the land get rich on their dividends. Outside it was rainy, damp and misty. Inside the members were regarding each other with disdain and calculating what effect the humidity of the atmosphere would have on the varnish of their patent leather boots.

"Suppose we get out of this," said the colonel briefly as he regarded the street from the broad club window.

"Where to?" said I.

"Paris," he said laconically.

"Done," said I.

And then the bag was ordered to be packed and the journey began.

We left Waterloo station and we were trying, like old sailors, to transform a railroad compartment into a comfortable smoking divan. It was then I first noticed the colonel's Gladstone bag. It had been reposing peacefully in the rack above my head, and I threw it down in hopes of using it for a pillow. Somehow it slipped and fell to the floor.

"Look out!" said the colonel. "If you dropped that bag a year ago that way, I wouldn't have given much for your chances of living; no, nor mine either."

I saw then there was a history in the bag and said, "Why?"

"It isn't a long story, but may keep you awake. I'll tell you about it. When I left the army and returned home from India, I was not very well off. I had studied explosives in the east, and some one at the club recommended me to a French company which had been formed about the same time to perfect a new explosive which, they were assured, would be favorably considered by the war office. The salary was good and the subject interesting, so I accepted their offer.

"I established my laboratory outside of Versailles and went to work with a will. In my experiments, however, I found myself all at once out of nitroglycerin, which I needed absolutely. I wrote to the company. No dynamite was to be had. Then I went up to the French war office and saw the secretary. He was sorry, so very sorry, but at the present time, in the disturbed state of the country, etc., he regretted that it would not be in his power to furnish nitroglycerin to private persons. However, he would do what he could, and he gave me a letter to Colonel Majendie, chief of explosives in London, who, he said, would surely honor my request.

"That night I took the club train to London, and next morning at 10 o'clock found me at the chief's office. I presented my letter and stated what I wanted. The chief regarded me with suspicion (you must remember it was during the dynamite scare in England), and the more I explained the less he believed me. Various officers were introduced, one after the other, for no other purpose, I believe, than to take down my personal characteristics as a professional dynamiter.

"At last the chief said that, in accordance with articles so and so, sections this and that of the office rules, he would be reluctantly compelled to refuse my request.

"Then I got tired.

"I told the chief I wanted the explosive and meant to get it. 'But you can't,' said he. 'I will,' said I, 'and carry it through London, too, whether you like it or no.' 'We'll see,' said Majendie. 'You will see,' said I, and I left him.

"That night when I walked home to my chambers I felt rather discouraged. There was ten pounds of nitroglycerin which I must have, and Lord only knows how many people Majendie might put in the way of my securing it. I wandered about London aimlessly for a week, and at last, when just about to despair, luck turned. Near Birmingham, I heard, a company had been formed to work a mine and used explosives.

"I took the next train from London and went there. There was a little village near the place, and from it I drove out to the works. I shall never forget it. When I got to the mine, I met a hungry looking man, who asked me roughly what I wanted. I saw he was the person I was after.

"'Come one side,' I said. 'You use dynamite here?'

"'Yes, for explosives.'

"'Do you want £20?'

"'Yes.'

"'Then get me ten pounds of nitroglycerin if you can.'

"I gave him the money, and he put it in his pocket.

"'Wait here,' was all he said.

"That evening I drove back to the little country hotel with my treasure in the Gladstone bag. I put it in the room, locked the door and slept outside, for I knew the fumes of the nitric acid would escape through the bag. In the morning I got up early and took the train for London with my precious cargo. At London it took but a short time to rush into a compartment of the Paris express, which was just departing.

"Here my real trouble began. I put my precious bag on the frame in front of me. The carriage was crowded, and I began to doze after the train started. Suddenly I looked up. A fellow passenger had seized the bag and was about to throw it to the floor to make room for some of his own luggage. Luckily I seized it in time. If I hadn't—well, I wouldn't have been here now to tell the story.

"After the train had progressed half way to Dover one man in the compartment said: 'Blast this railway service! Here I got a headache, the first in my life, through the ventilation.' Another also complained of a headache, and by the time we reached Dover there were seven very ill men in the compartment.

"I was ill, too, but I knew the cause. It was the fumes of nitroglycerin.

"At Dover as we got on the boat there was another narrow escape. A stupid porter seized the Gladstone bag and tried to balance it on his head. I rescued it in time.

"We got aboard the boat at Calais all right, and I sat pensively watching that infernal bag, which rested quietly, as if it had not been filled with dynamite enough to blow up the ship, within ten feet of me. The passage, thank heaven, was smooth, but I felt pretty well done up. I left the bag and walked down into the cabin, thinking of the custom house officers who were awaiting us on the other side. At last I saw a man—an interpreter, a Frenchman—and I decided to make him help me. I sat down in the cabin and began to weep. It isn't hard if you know how. He said, 'Does monsieur require anything?' I looked up, wiped away my tears and told him my sorrow.

"It was to the effect that my wife was dying in Paris. She had telegraphed me, and I was about to soothe her last moments by my presence. He became immediately interested and begged me to cheer up. I agreed to do so on condition that he would join me in a bottle of champagne, which he did gladly. As we walked I slipped two napoleons into his hand and said:

"'Now I want to get away quick on the first train. I've nothing but a satchel and don't want to be detained by the customs house at Calais. Can you arrange matters?' He swore that he would and kept his word. When the boat landed, my satchel was carried triumphantly ashore on the shoulders of my friend the interpreter, and I passed the customs house without a moment's delay.

"And so we went to Paris—the Gladstone bag, filled with nitroglycerin, and myself—and in course of time arrived at the Gare du Nord. I hailed a passing cab and directed the driver to my address, but cautioned him to avoid the rough streets on the journey. Like all Parisian hackmen, he did just the opposite till I stopped him. 'My friend,' said I, 'do you know what's in that satchel you have between your legs on the box? Well, sir, there's enough dynamite to blow your whole outfit to the devil, and if you don't drive quieter the chances are against you.' You never saw a more careful driver after that in your life.

"Finally I arrived at my rooms, and the next day I got up early, for I was beginning to get afraid of that infernal satchel by this time myself, and went to Versailles, where I stored the stuff safely in my laboratory and exploded it at my leisure.

"I wrote to Majendie in London afterward, telling of my success, and received a short reply saying that I ought to be in jail this minute.

"Funny, isn't it, that these English officials have no sense of humor?"

A Bitter Retort.

Mme. de Stael was angry with the Count de Choiseul for witty stings and sarcasms of which he had made her the subject. Once the two enemies met in a drawing room. Mme. de Stael and the count greeted each other on account of the laws of politeness.

"We have not seen each other for a long time," said she.

"Oh, madame," replied he, "I have been ill!"

"Have you?"

"I thought I was poisoned!"

"Alas! Perhaps you had bitten your tongue."

This terrible cut fell like a thunderbolt on the count, so famous for his slanders and scandals. He bowed low and withdrew, unable to utter a word in reply.

DIGESTIBLE BREAD.

That Made From Finely Ground Flour Said to Be Best.

It is the general theory among the majority of people that graham bread is far more digestible than that made of flour thoroughly "bolted" or separated from the bran and middlings. Such does not appear to be the fact, however, if we are to credit experiments of the department of agriculture.

Digestion experiments were carefully carried out with bread from each of the several kinds of flour and the proportions of protein assimilated and rejected by the system carefully determined. The whole wheat flours may afford a greater proportion of the mineral nutritions, however, as this phase of the subject was not studied, but as far as the available protein fats, carbohydrates and energy are concerned the patent roller flours are preferable. According to the chemical analysis of graham, entire wheat and standard patent flours milled from the same lot of hard Scotch Fife spring wheat the graham flour contained the highest and the patent flour the lowest percentage of total protein. The results of the digestion experiments with those flours showed that they were invaluable in the reverse order—that is, the standard patent roller flour afforded the greatest amount of assimilable protein, while the graham and whole wheat afforded lesser amounts.

This paradox, that the flour containing the smallest proportion of protein should afford the greatest proportion available for digestion, is explained by the coarseness of the particles of the whole wheat varieties. The bran and germ of these flours resist the action of the digestive juices to a great degree and consequently pass through the system unaltered. On the other hand, the finely ground condition of the patent flour improves its digestibility.

It was also shown that the addition of wheat starch to flour did not improve its breadmaking qualities or the size of the loaf. The most desirable flour for breadmaking appears to be one produced by blending hard and soft wheat flours, in which the undesirable properties of the gluten of each are counterbalanced.—Bakers' Review.

Metals That Cost.

One of the most curious of the rare metals is vanadium, which melts at 2,000 degrees F. and is not attacked by either muriatic acid or nitric acid. It increases the ductility of copper and iron and would be very valuable to electro metallurgists on account of the properties named if the price of it were not so high, $592 a pound. Its chief use at present is for coloring glass.

Uranium is likewise employed in the making of glass and porcelain, though it is expensive, being worth $86 a pound.

Iridium is valued today at $780 a pound and is the hardest metal known. It is used for tips of gold pens. Palladium costs $482 a pound and is employed for astronomical instruments.

Lithium, which is quoted at $1,100 a pound, is prescribed by doctors for rheumatism—its salts, that is to say—but no use has been found for it outside of medicine.

Starting and Staying.

At the start in a long race, the advantage often appears to be with an outsider. But the race is won not in starting but in staying. The quality which wins is staying power. It is so in the race of life. Staying power wins, and as a rule the best stayer is the man with the best stomach. All physical strength is derived from food which is properly digested and assimilated. When the food eaten is only partly digested and assimilated there is a loss of nutrition which means a loss of strength and the general result is physical break-down.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery gives strength and staying power, because it cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of the food eaten, and so strengthens the body naturally by the nutrition derived from food.

"I was troubled with indigestion for about two years," writes Wm. Bowker, Esq., of Juliaetta, Latah Co., Idaho. "I tried different doctors and remedies but to no avail, until I wrote to you and you told me what to do. I suffered with a pain in my stomach and left side and thought that it would kill me. Now I am glad to write this and let you know that I am all right. I can do my work now without pain and I don't have that tired feeling that I used to have. Five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' cured me."

Accept no substitute for Golden Medical Discovery. There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

HOSPITALITY.

NOT long I was asked by a visitor in the valley why it was that the old-time hospitality for which Sonoma has long been noted was on the wane. Our visitor had returned after several years' absence and was ready to notice any change or changes that had taken place in the meanwhile.

I confess that I was somewhat surprised at the question, for I felt that we had a genuine hospitality here, and as for the old days I could not find anything more genuine then. I concluded that the gentleman's judgment was due to the absence of old friends and the presence of new and strange faces in our community, but upon questioning him closely I found out that our ideas of hospitality were different and that according to his conception of the term we of today are not impressing strangers as we should.

In the first place we should be more generous with our smiles and words of welcome. When you meet a stranger do not look upon him with suspicion. Give him the glad hand and treat him right so long as he proves himself worthy. If a family moves into your neighborhood and has the semblance of gentility call upon them. It wont hurt you and it will do a whole lot toward giving them a good opinion of the community. If you have a pretty garden or a well laden vineyard or orchard ask your visitor to have some roses or a bunch of grapes or an apple. The spirit of generosity impresses strangers and goes a long way toward helping out the valley's reputation abroad. Many of our people have the proper spirit and thanks to them Sonoma Valley has never quite lost her fame for true courtesy and generosity.

Those that realize their indifference (for it is only indifference) should emulate the example of the ones who are ever thoughtful of their guests and Sonoma Valley's claim to a reputation of hospitality.

EL VERANO. HAPPENINGS.

Mrs. F. A. Riser visited in San Francisco Monday.

Kenneth Weaver drove over to Petaluma Saturday.

Jos. Nevraumont spent the fore part of the week in the metropolis.

Supervisor Blair Hart was in town one day this week looking after the roads in this vicinity.

O. W. Nordwell, the well-known tailor of San Francisco, visited his ranch near this place Sunday.

A. Baccala of Sonoma has purchased from the Pacific Improvement Company lots 15 and 16 in this place. Mr. Baccala will improve his purchase in the near future.

Hugh Chance, an employee of the Union Iron Works, arrived in town Sunday morning. Young Chance is on the sick list. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Joe Ryan, a well-known and popular member of the San Francisco Fire Department, is registered at the Bellevue. Mr. Ryan, during his brief sojourn here, has made many friends among our people.

While Rawson's circus was passing through town en route to Sonoma last Tuesday one of the trick dogs belonging to the show fell out of one of the wagons and broke its neck. The canine was valued at $250.

Adam Yenni, proprietor of the Old Corner Saloon in this place, is the owner of two of the finest dogs in the county. They were sent up to Mr. Yenni recently by a San Francisco friend. One of the dogs resembles a coon and is quite a curiosity.

Louis Kearney will shortly leave for Woodland, Yolo county, where he expects to purchase a fine race horse on which he has had his eye for some time. Should he be able to purchase the animal the Sonoma "hoss" sports will be given a run for their money.

While one of the young bloods of this place was talking "hoss" to a number of summer people at Verano, Sunday evening, he forgot to flag the flying train, which passed the flag station with a rush, leaving him behind. With the exclamation, "that's a horse on me," he heroically took to the ties and headed toward his destination near Eldridge station.

A serious runaway occurred in our town Wednesday afternoon. While Pierre Castera, the driver of the El Verano Villa bus, was hauling a load of lumber in a wagon belonging to C. F. Carmer, the horses became frightened and ran away while he was in the act of mounting the wagon seat. One of the lines slipped from his hands and he lost control of the animals. After running a short distance a ditch was encountered, the wagon gave a sudden lurch and Castera was hurled from his seat and striking on his head was knocked almost unconscious. He suffered concussion of the brain and was severely bruised and cut up about the head. One of his fingers was also badly hurt. The unfortunate driver was assisted to Dutil's French Cottage and Dr. Carl Walliser was summoned from Sonoma to attend to his injuries, which although serious are not considered necessarily fatal. The runaways were stopped and secured by R. E Denehey and Michael Mullen after running as far as Mullen's store. At latest accounts Mr. Castera was getting along nicely.

SHIP-WRECKED.

Humanity to the Rescue.

If the news were flashed across the continent that on some desolate, inhospitable shore a mother and child were ship-wrecked, it would not be an hour before relief expeditions were being planned and organized. Though the cost should be millions, though the voyage should be long and perilous, though the woman cast-away were the poorest of her sex, unstinted treasure would be poured out and life cheerfully risked to bring her back to home and happiness.

Is in any worse for mother and babe to perish of disease and hunger on a desolate island than under a sheltering roof in a civilized land? How many mothers' lives are wrecked by ill-health each year? How many infants die of innutrition annually? Why should not the story of such as these make appeal to human sympathy and stir men to organized effort for their relief.

RELIEF IS READY.

More and more with every month of every year women are learning that a call for help in their weakness and sickness will be promptly answered by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. Of the average of five thousand letters received by Dr. Pierce each week in the year a large number are from weak and sick women who ask for relief from pain, rescue from the loneliness and desolation of a life which disease has robbed of all its brightness. Every such letter is regarded as a cry for help, and the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., of which Dr. Pierce is chief consulting physician and surgeon, is organized for the rescue of just such weak and sick women. With his staff of nearly a score of physicians, each man a specialist, Dr. Pierce responds to the appeal of suffering women as promptly as the crew of a life-boat respond to the appeal of distressed mariners. By his medicines and advice hundreds of thousands of sick women have been made well.

"I wish to add my testimony to hundreds of others as to the value of Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Ida M. De Ford, of Latona, Hubbard Co., Minn. "Have doctored with a great many physicians—some specialists; have twice been in a hospital for treatment. My case has been regarded as a hopeless one, and they knew not what the trouble was. Heart was bad; stomach all out of order; tired out, severe pains in all parts of the body; sinking spells and nearly every ailment a woman could have. I took many a bottle of different 'Patent medicines' without effect. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and ten months afterward I gave birth to a ten-pound boy. All physicians had stated as a fact that I never could bear a child. Both the baby and myself were strong, and I got along splendidly—thanks to your medicine. I do my own work and feel very much encouraged. I wish all suffering women would thoroughly try your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

IS A WOMAN'S WORD GOOD?

Upon the answer to that question depends the value of statements such as those made by Mrs. De Ford. She "doctored with many physicians—some specialists," without benefit. She has "twice been in hospital." Her "case was regarded as a hopeless one." She turned to the use of "patent medicines without effect." And after all this suffering and the failures of the medicines and doctors, she was cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Any woman who can read such a statement as Mrs. De Ford's and doubt its truth casts a doubt upon the truthfulness of women at large. For this testimonial is only one of thousands written by women glad and grateful for healing by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

But if Mrs. De Ford's testimony be accepted as true, what an avenue of hope it opens to the suffering of her sex, even to those who have seemingly exhausted all medical skill and medicinal means of cure.

"Over one year ago I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice," says Mrs. R. M. Clites, of 1205 Williams Street, Omaha, Nebr. "Had been doctoring with two of my home physicians for blood poison. They did not do me much good—only for a short time. Dr. Pierce recommended his medicines and I took three bottles of his 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and now I feel better than for more than ten years. I am so very thankful that I heard of Dr. Pierce's medicines, I cannot thank him too much for his kind advice to me." FOUNDED ON FACTS.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries offensive and weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It is the best preparative for motherhood; tranquilizing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep. It makes the baby's advent practically painless and gives the mother strength to give her child.

Sick women, especially those suffering from chronic diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Refuse all substitutes for "Favorite Prescription." The only motive for substitution is to enable the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines.

OF GREAT WORTH TO WOMEN.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser deals with the important questions in the fields of biology, physiology and hygiene, in plain English. Of especial value to women are the chapters treating on the care of the health, marriage and maternity. The work contains over a thousand large pages and is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The price paid for the old building, which was sold to make place for an iron and stone structure, was $335.

POLITICAL

Candidates Commencing to Materialize.

The political pot in Sonoma county has commenced to simmer but will not have reached the boiling point until the conventions of the two parties meet, which will probably be in August. But for all that, candidates for several of the offices are already being mentioned by their friends and still others have come out in the open and declared themselves.

For Superior Judges the names of the present incumbents, Samuel K. Dougherty and Albert G. Burnett, are being mentioned by Republicans for the nomination when their convention meets. Ex-Superior Judge Crawford, it is said, will make another try for the nomination which he came within an ace of securing six years ago. So far the Democratic lawyers of the county are not "falling all over themselves" to secure judicial honors, as they still have a faint recollection of the 1100 majority secured by Judges Dougherty and Burnett It is said, however, that John P. Rodgers of Petaluma may be one of the Democratic nominees for Superior Judge.

For Sheriff there are two strong Republican aspirants for the nomination with "several precincts yet to hear from." These are Chas. H. Ohm, Constable of Sonoma Township, who has all kinds of money to make a campaign with, and Jack Smith, the genial and popular conductor of the California Northwestern Railway Company. It is conceded that Frank P. Grace, the present Sheriff, will receive the Democratic nomination.

For County Clerk the present Chief Deputy, Fred. G. Nagle, is out for the Republican nomination with a fair chance of being on the ticket. The Democrats have several aspirants for the office, Chas. O. Dunbar of the Press Democrat being one of them.

Minnie Coulter, Superintendent of Schools, and Frank Dowd, County Assessor, will without a doubt receive the Democratic nomination to succeed themselves.

Newton V. Smyth, who was elected County Surveyor by the Republicans four years ago by a rousing majority, will also be a candidate for renomination.

Later on many other candidates will bob up, as the campaign promises to be a hot one next fall. The two parties are almost equally divided in this county, and no candidate can tell just how he stands until the political hammers are cast aside and the votes counted. A nomination by either party in this county is not equivalent to election by any means. It takes hot air and many "smiles" with the boys to win out in Old Sonoma.

The Beet Farm.

Mr. T. J. Burkett, Superintendent of the big beet farm on the upper Jones ranch just below Schellville, was in town one day this week. He reports that the young beets, of which there are 300 acres, are growing finely. The work of thinning out the beets was finished Monday. The recent showers have given the beets a good start and prospects for a paying crop are good. Mr. Burkett has also seeded over two hundred acres of the tract to oats and will harvest a big hay crop. The oats were planted to get rid of the obnoxious weeds on that portion of the farm seeded to them. After harvest the oat field will be prepared for beets of which over 500 acres will be put under cultivation next season.

Dispatched a Rattler.

Miss Louisa Bundschu, daughter of Charles Bundschu of Rhinefarm, who is the guest of Miss A. Henz of Mill Valley, Marin county, while out walking, one day last week, came suddenly upon a huge rattlesnake lying directly in her path. The reptile gave no warning sound and the young lady came very near stepping upon it. To be sure she was startled, but she did not faint as many of her sex would surely have done, for be it known that nothing short of the sight of a mouse would cause Miss Bundschu to commit such an indiscretion under such trying circumstances. On the contrary, she picked up an unromantic spade, which was lying near by, and gave chase to the rattler, which she cornered and dispatched. The snake had seven rattles and a button. Miss Bundschu is an intrepid girl, a fine horsewoman and a good rifle shot. Last season she killed several deer in the mountains north of this place.

TRAGIC DEATH.

Mrs. Victor Sartori Killed Instantly in San Rafael.

Mrs. Sartori, wife of Victor Sartori, the well-known dairyman of Fairville, was thrown from her carriage in San Rafael Saturday afternoon and instantly killed.

The accident occurred on one of the principal streets of the town and was witnessed by a number of people. Mrs. Sartori was driving a spirited horse and was on her way to the California Northwestern depot to meet her husband, who was to arrive in town from Fairville. She had proceeded but a short distance when the animal became fractious and ran away. In trying to check the horse he shied suddenly and the unfortunate woman was hurled out of the carriage and striking the ground with great force her skull was fractured in two places. She died almost instantly.

Mrs. Sartori was forty-five years of age. She was married to Mr. Sartori less than a year ago, being a wealthy widow at the time. Since her marriage she has lived alternately at Fairville and San Rafael.

Mr. Sartori, who is one of Sonoma Valley's most popular business men, has the sympathy of a large number of friends in this place and vicinity, who greatly deplore the tragic death of his amiable wife.

The funeral took place in San Rafael Tuesday and was largely attended, many being present from this place.

PASSING OF R. A. HARVEY

Lived in this Valley for Twenty Years.

R. A. Harvey, brother-in-law of Postmaster Cheney of this place, is dead. He passed away at his home near Fulton, in this county, last Sunday, at the age of 76 years.

Deceased lived in this valley from 1861 to 1881, and during his residence here took an active part in local affairs. The Harvey district school at El Verano was named after him. In 1881 he removed to Fulton, where he engaged in farming and continued to reside up to the day of his death.

Mr. Harvey was born in Concord, New Hampshire, in 1826, and was descended from sturdy New England stock. He came to California in 1852, and with the other pioneers did his share toward making the Golden State what it is to-day. He leaves a widow, Keturah Jane, and five grown children.

The remains were brought to this place Wednesday for interment in the family burial plot in Mountain Cemetery, and they now repose beside those of relatives gone before. In the passing of Mr. Harvey Sonoma county loses an honest man and a substantial and upright citizen.

OTTO OLSEN IS DEAD.

Passed Away Tuesday After a Lingering Illness.

Otto Olsen, for a number of years manager of the Muser farm, died last Tuesday morning after an illness of over six months. The deceased previous to being stricken down was as fine a specimen of physical young manhood as one would wish to see, and in the enjoyment of perfect health. A complication of disorders set in immediately after he took to his bed which for a time baffled the skill of his physicians, but after months of treatment they succeeded in effecting a cure, and for a time Mr. Olsen gave promise of being restored to his former good health. Early last month, however, he suffered a relapse and again took to his bed, but his once powerful constitution had been so weakened by the previous illness that the doctors could do nothing for him and he passed calmly and peacefully away at about nine o'clock Tuesday morning after a brave struggle of many months.

Otto Olsen was a most worthy young man and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of those who knew him well. Particularly was this so of the late Otto Muser, who made him the manager of his farm which is one of the finest in the valley.

The deceased leaves a young widow to mourn for him and hosts of friends who will miss his genial smile and hearty hand shake. Otto Olsen was a native of Sweden and had but reached his twenty-eighth year.

He was an Odd Fellow and Forester in good standing.

The funeral took place Thursday from the Muser farm. The interment was in Mountain Cemetery.

Mr. Fochetti is an energetic and enterprising business man. He is up to date and believes in printer's ink. He has spent in the past hundreds of dollars in advertising in these columns. ## LITTLE DROPS OF WATER.

A Chinese Punishment That Downed Strong Man Sandow.

One of the Chinese modes of punishment, especially when it is desired to extort a confession from a criminal, is to place him where a drop of water will fall on one certain spot of his shaven crown for hours. Some measure of the torture this inflicted was once experienced by Sandow, the "strong man," says The World's Events.

When Sandow was in Vienna some years ago, a schoolmaster made a wager with him that he would not be able to let a half liter of water drop on his hand until the measure was exhausted. Sandow laughed at the idea.

The measure was procured and a hole drilled in the bottom sufficient to let the water escape drop by drop. The experiment began. Sandow chatted gayly at first. The schoolmaster stood by and counted the drops as they fell. At the two hundredth Sandow became less jovial; then he became sober, and an expression of pain crossed his face. At the three hundredth his hand began to swell and grow red. The pain increased and at length became excruciating. Then the skin burst. Finally at the four hundred and twentieth drop Sandow acknowledged his defeat.

The Doctor and His Patient.

One day Dr. P., who had company to dinner, sat quietly chatting in a corner of the drawing room when he was told that a patient had come to see him who was strongly recommended by some fellow practitioners. The doctor submitted with a bad grace and stepped into his surgery.

Our physician was in the habit of ascertaining the condition of the patient by asking him to count and generally stopped him at thirty or thirty-five, quite enough for the purpose. This time also Dr. P. asked his patient to count. Time passed, and the guests began to feel alarmed at his protracted absence. One of them opened the surgery door. Dr. P. had gone to sleep in his armchair, and the patient had counted up to 8,642.—London Answers.

Dogs as Horses.

"In Belgium all the dogs are horses" is the way in which the Irishman described the fact. It comes as a rude surprise to an Englishman the first time he sees a heavy cart with an equally heavy market woman comfortably squatting in it drawn by a dog. And when he finds out that the streets of the old Flemish cities swarm with dog drawn vehicles of all sorts, sizes and shapes he rapidly concludes that he has entered a land of cruelty where man hath no bowels of compassion for the dumb brute. The milkwoman, the butcher, the fishmonger, the general dealer, all convey their goods through the streets in dog carts. Sometimes a single animal represents the tradesman's wealth in dogflesh; more often we see a pair cheerfully plodding along; occasionally the load is heavy enough to tax the energies of three of these patient animals.

The Musician and His Notes.

Once upon a time a very mean man employed a musician to play sweet music for him.

After some time the player asked his employer for compensation for his services and was put off with a fair promise. Then, after a time, he asked again, with a similar result. Then a third time he asked and insisted on receiving his pay.

"Did you not hear me promise to pay you?" asked the man.

"Yes," answered the player, "I did hear you, but I cannot play by ear alone."

A Real Loss.

A gentleman who knew Bronson Howard when he was a boy in Detroit met him in New York one day and asked him if it were true, as he had heard, that William Winter had been a very bitter critic of his early plays, but that the sting had been extracted from his pen by a dinner at which some of their mutual friends had managed to bring them together.

"Yes," said Howard, "he was the only enemy I ever had. I lost him."—New York Times.

Tender Mercy of Asceticism.

Many letters come to the monastery announcing the death of relatives of the monks. These are seen by the abbot only, and at chapter he may simply announce:

"The mother of one of our number is dead. Let us pray for her soul."

Never to his dying day does the bereaved Trappist learn that he was praying for his own mother.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Whooping Cough.

A woman who has had experience with this disease, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: "Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby boy being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl would call lustily for cough syrup between whoops.—Jessie Pinkey Hall, Springfield, Ala. This remedy is for sale by F. Duhring. *

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured After Fourteen Years of Suffering.

"I have been afflicted with sciatic rheumatism for fourteen years," says John Edgar of Germantown, Cal. "I was able to be around but constantly suffered. I tried everything I could hear of and at last was told to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I did, and was immediately relieved and in a short time cured, and I am happy to say it has not since returned." Why not use this liniment and get well? It is for sale by F. Duhring. *

Too Brave to Be Killed.

The first white person who made a permanent settlement in the county of Onondaga, N. Y., was Ephraim Webster. He traded with the Indians, became familiar with their language and customs and was for many years Indian agent and interpreter for the Onondagas. It sometimes happened that the Indians, on account of fancied or real wrongs, became offended with him. More than once they threatened his life.

At one time the Indians tied him to a tree and amused themselves by throwing tomahawks to see how near they could come to his head and not hit it. Sometimes the whistling missile grazed his hair. The sport was kept up for more than an hour, during which time Webster did not flinch. His coolness excited the admiration of his tormentors.

Making It Clear.

An old lady is said to have been asked how to tell good indigo. "Powder the indigo," said she, "sprinkle it upon cold water, and if it is good it will either sink or swim, I have forgotten which."

It was the same with Aunt Charity's eggs.

"Jest take a dozen of 'em—no, a half a dozen of 'em—no, it's a dozen—well, raaly I can't say, but it's either a dozen or a half dozen—and you put 'em in a pailful—no, a half pailful—part full—no, it's a pailful—no—well, well, it's either a pailful or a half pailful of water—and the good eggs will swim on top—no, the good eggs will sink to the bottom—no, that's not it—the good eggs will swim—no, no, I declare, I don't raaly know, but, anyway, the good eggs will either sink or swim."

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,

F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.
